Topic

Building Vibrant Communities

Strong, vibrant communities are able to confront challenges, nurture the good, and create change for the better.

The latest Census data reviewed that Australia is "A nation of nations" with Australians showing their country of births from 200 countries.

Living in a fast changing, ever expanding, culturally diverse nation, how can we embrace diversity and work together to harness the energy and ideas of people from all walks of life to build vibrant communities?

As a Member of Parliament with a rich cultural background, Jing has an in-depth connection with diverse communities across South Australia. She will share her stories of resilience and experience about how successful collaboration, leadership, and innovation can help empower communities to find new solutions and develop new opportunities.
